

Correct timing for changing the number of generating sets is critical factor in fuel consumption in diesel electric and auxiliary power installations. An efficient power management system is the best way to improve the system performance.

Running extensively at low load sharing can easily increase the SFOC by 5-10%.
Low load increases the risk of turbine fouling with a further impact on fuel consumption.

MORE INFO

BACK